Then, we will use PORTL to explore behavior principles and techniques that will help you create optimal learning situations when working with both animals and people. In addition, Mary will use video examples, short lectures and discussions to help you relate the hands-on PORTL activities back to the teaching you do with your dogs and with your human clients. The workshop will give you new ideas about shaping behavior, strategic reinforcement delivery, mechanical skills, timing, and capturing and transferring actions.

havior. You'll get a peek into the science behind why choice is so important, as well as tips on how to improve behavior by thoughtfully changing an animal's environment. Find out even more by joining one of the active learning sessions associated with this talk.

of the dog(s) involved. Jim brings extensive experience in dog bite investigation, from minor annoyance bites to the worst of the worst, and hands-on work with dogs, owners, victims and legal authorities. Learn how and why dogs bite and what we as behavior professionals can do about them.

Going to BAT for All Dogs: Intro to BAT for dog reactivity and puppy socialization Grisha Stewart M.A., CPDT-KA, KPA CTP

A common mistake in dog training is to distract dogs from triggers, rather than empowering them to be fully functional adult members of society. Behavior Adjustment Training

(BAT) begins by creating empowering scenarios in which dogs experience safety and freedom. From this foundation, dogs naturally develop curiosity to explore the edges of their comfort zone, and the human's role is to be a secure base of safety and connection. In this talk, Grisha will explore the values that drive her development and fine-tuning of BAT. She'll also use video and live leash work to demonstrate the most up-to-date techniques in the BAT toolbox, including key BAT leash skills, the new leash belay survival skill, co-regulation strategies, and BAT set-up examples.

Teaching Humans: Welcome to dog training

Joey Iversen, CBATI, CPDT, KPA CTP, UW-AAB, TAGteach Faculty

Understanding and incorporating the fundamentals of TAGteach (Teaching with Acoustical Guidance) to develop confident, independent, creative human learners in your dog training classes. This information will be valuable to you in your private lessons, groups lessons and even for your own training with your animals.

How to Add a Membership Program to Your Dog Training Services Robin Bennett, CPDT-KA

Memberships are booming in all industries, and the pet care industry is no exception. Don't be left behind in implementing some form of membership to increase revenue and brand loyalty to your dog training business. With increasing expenses, rising gas costs and staff hiring challenges, memberships are one of the best ways to safeguard your business against loss of revenue. In this session we will give examples of membership options for any dog training business and provide ways to take your current membership to the next level. In today's post-COVID world, adding a membership is one of the easiest ways to generate more revenue to your current clients and build a base of raving fans.

Find Your Crew and a Happier Training Life: Avoiding burnout while facing the challenges of being a dog trainer professional

Panel members:

Irith Bloom, CPDT-KSA, CBCC-KA, CDBC, CSAT, KPA CTP, VSPDT, CBATI, FFCP (Trainer), VSDTA Faculty, DWA Faculty; Fanna Easter, CPDT-KA, KPA CTP, CSAT, CDBC; Heidi Meinzer, JD, CPDT-KA, CNWI; Joann Rechtine, M.S., M.P.H., RN, CPDT-KA, FDM, FFCP, CSAT; Kristina Spaulding, Ph.D., CAAB; Megan Stanley, CPDT-KSA, CBCC-KA; and Camille Ward, M.S., Ph.D., CAAB

Working with dogs professionally is challenging! While many friends and family think we play with puppies all day, our job involves dealing with lots of overwhelmed people and stressedout dogs. The only ones who understand the pressures of our jobs are fellow dog professionals, yet we are frequently isolated from each other. The key to avoiding burnout is finding support and friendship. Discover how seven dog professionals came together to help each other navigate challenges, get through rough patches and celebrate wins. Attendees will gain a better understanding of the pitfalls of being a solo dog professional and learn how finding and aligning with a group of like-minded individuals can improve your quality of life and job satisfaction.

Loose Leash Walking: The dance dissected

Kiki Yablon, KPA CTP, CPDT-KA Early in my career, a trainer friend joked that she was going to write a book called "Mastering Loose-Leash Walking in Only Two Years!" It's funny because it's true – or can be.

Modern, dog-centered loose-leash walking is not the single, homogeneous behavior of simply trotting by your side, but rather one of the most complex things that we ask our dogs to do with us. It's an improvised dance that involves two parties making decisions moment by moment, in response to each other and an ever-changing environment. Like any improvised performance you would want to watch, it requires a suite of interlocking prerequisite skills, for both handler and for the dog, that need to be generalized across many situations. In this session, Kiki will talk about what equipment may facilitate this learning from the get-go and why (spoiler alert: a longer leash for almost all types of walking); organize and break out critical component skills for both dogs and handlers; and discuss how to teach some of the ones that she thinks are often overlooked.

Separation Anxiety – From Training Pariah to Hidden Gem Malena DeMartini-Price, CTC

Working with separation anxiety was once considered a bit of a pariah, and few dog professionals would even consider taking these cases. With the profound changes in awareness, treatment application, remote tool use and mounting research findings, this behavior issue has truly evolved to be the hidden gem in the dog training industry. Learn about working with these challenging yet fascinating cases that are exceptionally rewarding.

How Behavior Consultants and Trainers Can Integrate with Shelters and Authorities Locally Retired Lieutenant James W. Crosby B.S., M.S.,

CBCC-KA, CDBC

Many shelters, and most law enforcement agencies, are without professional canine behavior support. This can run from training questions and behavior problems in surrendered or stray dogs to assisting with dog bites and community nuisance issues. Jim has worked with agencies around the world on various challenges, from bites to dog fighting to remediation training and simple safe handling of aggressive animals. This class will discuss how, and when, behavior consultants and trainers can assist with challenging cases.

How to TEACH Beginner Dog Sports Jamie Bozzi, CBCC-KA, CPDT-KSA, KPA CTP, ACDBC, CNWI, AKC Evaluator

This presentation is valuable for dog trainers because you will learn creative ways to incorporate foundation level dog sport games into your curriculum and/or current services.

Whether you teach group classes or do private consultations, you can help pet owners discover their dogs' superpowers. Dog sport games and other innovative dog activities are fun for both dog and pet parent. These games and exercises are also easy – anyone can implement them.

How to Recover from Unexpected Changes in Your Life

Bill Dotson Are you a small business owner or the only employee in your business? Be prepared to set your business up to keep running should you experience a health issue or a pandemic. Bill will explain his experience with his small company during a personally challenging time that gave him a new outlook on what to change to prevent risks to his business. As a small business owner, Bill learned there are many things he did not think of and how his mindset has changed in running his small business.

POWER HOUR with Tim Lewis, Ph.D.

Join Tim Lewis, Ph.D., for a small intimate lunch and get the opportunity to ask questions and network with other attendees. Tim is an eco-biologist; professor of biology at the University of St. Thomas, St. Paul, Minnesota; and a widely published research scientist.

To attend this event, you MUST pre-register at the time of registration or by contacting member services prior to conference at 800-738-3647. Cost is $25 per person and includes a $10 food voucher.

Active Learning Session 2: Choice and Training – Communicating with Clients Irith Bloom, CPDT-KSA, CBCC-KA, CDBC, CSAT, KPA CTP, VSPDT, CBATI, FFCP (Trainer), VSDTA Faculty, DWA Faculty, and Kristina Spaulding, Ph.D., CAAB

NOTE: The Choice and Training session on Wednesday morning is a prerequisite for this session. This active learning session involves interaction with other attendees. Attendance is capped at 60 attendees (first come, first served); we ask that you only attend one. Do you come up with great training plans but struggle to get clients to follow them? You are not alone! In this active learning session, Kristina Spaulding, Ph.D., and Irith Bloom will share some of their strategies for getting human clients on board with the idea of increasing choice for their animals. Be prepared to share ideas – and do a little roleplay– with fellow attendees as you explore different techniques. Spoiler alert: It helps to give human clients more choices, too.

Aggression on the Inside and Out: Bites of biology and behaviorism

Tim Lewis, Ph.D., and Michael Shikashio, CDBC When working with aggression cases, it is crucial to evaluate what an animal may be experiencing both internally from a biological perspective, as well as externally by assessing the environmental conditions. This robust approach to understanding the influences on behavior can encourage more successful outcomes when addressing problem behaviors such as aggression. For this enlightening ses-such as aggression. For this enlightening session, eco-biologist Tim Lewis, Ph.D., and aggression specialist Mike Shikashio, CDBC, will highlight the "inner and outer" factors that may impact aggressive behavior in dogs, from a biologist lens and a behaviorist lens. From antecedent to amygdala or consequence to cortisol, this presentation will be a deep dive into aggression. So bring your observational skills to this fun and interactive talk where we will dissect and assess a variety of aggressive behaviors.

Canine Colors for Humans

Beth Bowers, CPDT-KA, CMPTI, CPPS, CTDI This session will provide you with a fun new way to look at personality testing for dogs and the colorful humans who own them and work with them. Have you ever considered why a particular client seems to not be on the same page as you? Have you ever wished you could find a simplified way to work better with your employees or team members? Canine Colors is a fun, easy-to-use method for building strong relationships and enhancing communication among your team or your clients. And it has an added fun feature of being able to help people understand their dogs on a whole different level, and even better, help you pair people with the right dog for their personality.

Broader Perspectives, Better Training Curtis Kelley, CPDT-KA

We explore the ways dog training as an industry as well as underserved communities at large can benefit from a more diverse population of dog trainers.

Protecting Your Business from Fraud Timothy J. O'Toole, CFE, CPA

Tim's presentation will revolve around current events, fraud stats affecting small business and then some specific tips for the participants to consider in their businesses to, hopefully, avoid being victims of fraud. There aside for Q&A.

will be time set aside for Q&A.

Why Can't We All Just Get Along? Understanding conflict in multi-dog households

Camille Ward, M.S., Ph.D., CAAB Dogs living in multi-dog environments must balance cooperation and conflict to maintain the integrity of valuable social relationships.

Social animals, including dogs, have evolved ways to manage conflict within groups because it is not adaptive for minor conflicts to turn into fights that routinely result in serious injuries to one or both parties. However, we know that not all dogs within a household can successfully manage conflicts and live together in peace. In this presentation, Camille will examine the research on conflict management and reconciliation in dogs, and drawing from her own case files, she'll discuss ways to evaluate and work with household dogs who don't get along with one another.

Active Learning Session 3: Choice and Training – The Shelter/Rescue Environment

Irith Bloom, CPDT-KSA, CBCC-KA, CDBC, CSAT, KPA CTP, VSPDT, CBATI, FFCP (Trainer), VSDTA Faculty, DWA Faculty, and Kristina Spaulding, Ph.D., CAAB

NOTE: The Choice and Training session on Wednesday morning is a prerequisite for this session. This active learning session involves interaction with other attendees. Attendance is capped at 60 attendees (first come, first served) we ask that you only attend one. Do you work with animals at an animal welfare center or rescue group, either as staff or as a volunteer? Do you wish you could do more to reduce stress on the animals in your care? If so, this active learning session is for you! Join Kristina Spaulding, Ph.D., and Irith Bloom as they facilitate discussion and take you through a variety of activities that will help you find ways to improve the lives of the animals you see at your rescue or shelter.

Separation Anxiety – The Epidemic Within the Pandemic?

Malena DeMartini-Price, CTO There has been a lot of talk about separation anxiety becoming an epidemic due to the pandemic, but is that what has influenced the increase in these cases? We'll look at the various aspects that are affecting the pet dog population and the opportunities that now exist. There has never been a better time to learn more about working with separation anxiety dogs.

Muscling In on Dog Mobility Tim Lewis, Ph.D.

Muscles. That's all a dog needs to move. Oh, and bones, because without them all you have is a quivering mass of fibers. I suppose you have to feed the muscles, too, and get their waste products out of there. But that's all you need. Come to think of it, a nervous system to coordinate them would help, too. The biology of muscles is integrated with a lot else going on in dogs. However, you have to understand muscles and the bony framework they attach to if you live or work with dogs. This look at the biology of muscles, with the canine athlete in mind, will be relevant to any dog (and therefore any-one who works with dogs, lives with dogs or just wants to learn more about dogs).

Nutrition and Behavior: The two most controversial pet dog topics and how they intertwine

Amy Pike, DVM, DACVB If you want to pick two of the most controversial topics among pet dog owners and small animal veterinarians, it would be nutrition and behavior. With so many myths abounding, what is one to do when those two topics collide? In this talk we will delve into the role that nutrition plays in behavior problems, and what the current recommendations are for appropriate nutrition of pet dogs.

TAGteach in Action: Ready to Talk Less and Teach More? Joey Iversen, CBATI, CPDT, KPA CTP, UW-AAB, TAGteach Faculty

This session will give you the opportunity to practice the TAGteach fundamentals to: • Tell your human learner exactly what you want them to do

- Communicate without nagging or reminders
- Empower the learner to participate more in their own learning
- Incorporate TAGteach to supercharge your learning environment and bring more success and fun to your learners

POWER HOUR with Lt. Jim Crosby, (retired), B.S., M.S., CBCC-KA, CDBC

Join Jim for a small intimate lunch and get the opportunity to ask questions about his experience in aggression, both by canines and law enforcement, and network with other attendees. To attend this event, you MUST pre-register at the time of registration or by contacting member services prior to conference at 800-738-3647. Cost is $25 per person and includes a $10 food voucher.

Canine Colors for Canines

Beth Bowers, CPDT-KA, CMPTI, CPPS, CTDI Have you ever wondered why a particular dog isn't quite working in your class or home environment? Canine Colors is a fun easy-to-use method to look at personality testing for dogs that will help your clients understand their dogs on a whole different level.

Stimulus-Stimulus Pairing: Mind the Gap Kiki Yablon, KPA CTP, CPDT-KA

"Stimulus-stimulus pairing" is often used interchangeably with "classical conditioning." But the first term simply describes what the trainer does, while the other implies an intended effect of the procedure. Leaving aside the trainer's intentions and looking with clear eyes at what happens when we arrange for one stimulus to predict another can open the door to some effective and creative teaching and problem-solving approaches. I'll review some behavioral research and share some experiences where paying attention to what happens before, after or smack dab in the middle of the pairing – in the "gap" between stimuli, minuscule as it may be –have made pairing procedures more effective and led to client-friendly shortcuts for teaching operant behaviors.

CLOSING KEYNOTE: Fulfilled, and Happy! Michael Shikashio, CDBC

Many of us get into dog training because, well, we want to work with and help dogs. We envision of all the wonderful outcomes for dogs and their guardians that we can make happen through training. Play with puppies all day! Teach cool tricks! Win dog sports titles! Living the dream as they say! And then the harsh reality of running a business brings a wake-up call, like your dog dry-heaving before vomiting at three in the morning. Marketing to get clients, managing client participation, accounting and bookkeeping, learning new technology, avoiding burnout and compassion fatigue, keeping up with CEUs, and being able to pay the rent at the end of the month, all come crashing down. "They didn't teach me this stuff when I was learning about operant conditioning!" you might proclaim. Running a profitable business where you feel fulfilled, successful, and most of all happy, does not have to be taboo. For the keynote presentation, Michael Shikashio will highlight his journey from "taking a basic training case or two per month" to building an internationally recognized global company, while giving tangible strategies for growth, and even discussing some of the mistakes he made that can be avoided. So, grab your favorite notepad, sit back and be prepared to take your business to the next level.

APDT Conference Dog Attendance Policy and Service Dog Policy

The APDT Board of Directors established that personal dogs are not allowed at our Annual Educational Conference and Trade Show. This decision was based on concern for the safety and comfort of our canine friends and on our conference format.

By attending the APDT/CAPDT Conference on the 19th day of October, 2022 (the "Event") sponsored by the Association of Professional Dog Trainers ("APDT") and the Canadian Association of Professional Dog Trainers ("CAPDT"), I understand and agree that I am assuming all risks regarding the Event including, but not limited to, falls, contact with animals and participants, and any damage caused by animals, participants or guests.

Knowing these facts, I, on behalf of myself, and my heirs, executors and administrators ("Releasing Parties"), release and covenant not to sue and forever discharge APDT and all APDT officers, directors, volunteers and parties associated with APDT and the Event (the "APDT Parties") from any and all claims, foreseen or unforeseen for damages, or liabilities, including attorney's fees and costs, of any kind, by the Releasing Parties or any third parties, including all participants, organization participating in the Event ("Covered Claims"). Further, I agree to indemnify APDT and the APDT Parties for any and all Covered Claims, for all damages, judgments, and other claims including attorney's fees and costs.

I further grant full permission to APDT and its agents to authorize by them any use of photographs, video, or any other recording of the Event for any purpose.

Service dogs are an exception to this policy. If you intend to bring a service dog to the conference, you will be asked to review the following information and indicate acceptance of our policies.

Service dogs are covered by Federal Law under the ADA. The behavior of a service dog is the responsibility of the dog's handler at all times and handlers must always be cognizant of their dog's interactions with people and other animals. Service dogs are expected to be on leash, well-behaved and under the handler's control, or if the handler is unable to control the dog for a time, under the control of a designated adult individual. If the handler's disability precludes the use of a leash, harness or other type of tether, the dog must be under the handler's control using voice cues, hand signals or another means of communication.

Please be aware that if your service dog is observed demonstrating aggressive behavior toward a dog or person, you may be asked to remove the dog by the APDT and/or facility and it may not be allowed at the conference. The facility may be obligated to ask you to remove the dog to protect the safety of both people and animals. Aggressive behavior is defined as a constellation of behaviors including:

- Hard stares
- Hackles up
- Pursed lips
- Growling
- Lunging
- Biting

Behaviors that may also lead to being asked to remove the dog are behaviors that may disrupt the facility's ability to conduct business, such as uncontrolled barking, lunging and jumping on people, and bolting from the handler without the ability to be recalled.

Service dogs must be house trained, and handlers are responsible for cleaning up after the animal at all times.

Our policy allowing service dogs does not cover emotional support, comfort animals and therapy dogs, which are not defined as service animals under Title II and Title III of the ADA. It also does not cover service dogs-in-training when the state laws of the conference location do not allow for service dogs-in-training to have the same public access as service dogs. Please review the state laws for this year's location to determine if you are eligible to bring a service dog-in-training.
